densely populated “Noith Joisey” and the wild and frantic metropolis of New York City. So you can imagine that I, as a young child, had much curiosity and longing to visit the “Big Apple” (as we called New York City) and find out what it was really like. Finally, when I reached the exalted, double-digit age of 10 years old, my wish was granted! Little did I know that my first trip to the Big Apple would be the exploratory expedition of what would become an annual family pilgrimage during Easter school break. For years we observed this ritual religiously, but it had nothing to do with the religious holiday. It had everything to do with...

Broadway: A “Religion” of Its Own

Permit me to explain.

My Dad was an aspiring Broadway actor, singer and director, while my Mom was a set and costume maker, dancer and choreographer. They were both lineal descendants of a great Jewish “Vaudeville” performing tradition. You see, as immigrants in the early 20th century, Jews weren’t permitted to enter many white-collar professions, or work as union laborers, but they were welcome to be entertainers - - musicians, singers, actors and comedians. In college, my father had acted and sang in numerous stage shows and even won second place in a national collegiate public speaking competition (the winner, of which became a U.S. Senator from Oregon!). My Dad’s cousin, Pearl, had starred as a featured dancer in the Ziegfield Follies. My mother had appeared as a youngster in the children’s theatre on the Steel Pier in Atlantic City (the only big town near

Confronting an Aging and Unsafe Driver

As seniors get older, they may lose their ability to safely operate a car. You may begin noticing some unsafe driving practices like speeding, improper lane changes, slowed reaction times, and even getting lost.

It's time to have a difficult conversation, but how do you start? Consider using some of the following tips to confront an aging and unsafe driver.

Having a Conversation with Your Aging Loved One About Giving up the Keys

Many older people can continue to drive well into their retirement years, but sometimes it's unsafe for them to do so. If you take their keys away, your loved one may feel as if they are losing their independence. Although you may receive a scathing reaction, approaching the big talk with...

The Standing Room

Redondo Beach

A hidden gem, well-known to many South Bay residents, is The Standing Room. The original location is in Redondo Beach off of Catalina Avenue and Diamond Street, inside and adjacent to the corner liquor store.

While they have a very simple menu of uniquely designed gourmet burgers and fries, they have a couple of delicious starters including their flash-fried brussels sprouts with a habanero cream sauce and pan-roasted edamame made with a chili garlic soy reduction! Yum!

They also relocated their Hermosa Beach location to Torrance (off of Torrance Blvd, between Hawthorne and Prairie Avenue).

Have you tried The Standing Room? What's your favorite dish?

QUOTE OF THE MONTH

"I believe luck is preparation meeting opportunity. If you hadn't been prepared when the opportunity came along, you wouldn't have been lucky!"

—Oprah Winfrey, American Talk Show Host, Producer, Actress, Author, and Media Proprietor

(NOTE: Mr. Kavesh recalls his father preaching to him, "Luck happens when preparation meets opportunity!", so we're not sure of the real origin of this quote!)
